Current industry training programs:

WCC professionals (<http://www.wcc.vccs.edu/workforce/index.php>) are dedicated to helping area public and private sector employers with the training needs in each organization and maximizing the potential of the local workforce. Training programs are developed by content experts, based on specific needs, and customized to the unique circumstances of every client organization. Courses are outcome-oriented and designed to prepare a changing workforce for a changing future. Consultation services for program development are provided at no charge to training clients.

VCCS/Apprenticeship-related instruction programs offered through WCC include the Journeyman Certification for Machinist. In partnership with the Department of Labor and Industry's Apprenticeship Program and area employers, skill specific on-the-job training is supported with both classroom and online instructional resources.

Resources for training purposes:

WCC has set aside facility space to meet employer needs. Classroom space can be reserved for learning opportunities such as training on new equipment, instruction concerning new technologies, and work-related skill enhancement.

Additionally, the Crossroads Institute (Galax) and the Smyth County Education Center (Atkins) provide comfortable meeting facilities for courses, computer training, workshops, community groups, teleconferences, and more. Each Center schedules day and evening classes to support the needs of area citizens and employers.
